Dear Ms. Haskins:

Reference: DOI-NPS-2023-00192

Subject: Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) Request

This letter is in reference to the FOIA request you filed on October 11, 2022, in which you requested:

- All emails to, from, and copying NPS employees related to the Fat Bear Week ballot box stuffing for the week of Oct 9
- All other documents, memos, or digital materials pertaining to the Fat Bear Week ballot box stuffing for the week of Oct 9

Your request has been received and has been assigned tracking number DOI-NPS-2023-000192. All future correspondence relating to this request should reference this tracking number.

Expedited Processing Denial

You have asked for expedited processing of your FOIA request. The Department's FOIA regulations state that a bureau will provide expedited processing when a requester demonstrates a compelling need for the records by explaining in detail how the request meets one or both of the criteria below and certifying the explanation is true and correct to the best of the requester's knowledge and belief. In accordance with 43 C.F.R. § 2.20 the criteria for granting expedited processing are as follows:

- (1) Failure to expedite the request could reasonably be expected to pose an imminent threat to the life or physical safety of an individual; or
- (2) There is an urgency to inform the public about an actual or alleged government activity and the request is made by a person primarily engaged in disseminating information. (The requested information must be the type of information that has particular value that will be lost if not disseminated quickly; this ordinarily refers to a breaking news story that concerns a matter of public exigency. Information of historical interest only or information sought for litigation or commercial activities would not qualify, nor would a news media deadline unrelated to breaking news.)

Your request does not contain enough evidence to support either of these criteria. Your request failed to address how the records you requested relate to an alleged or actual government activity. You also failed to address how the value of the information would be lost if not provided quickly, particularly as the event to which the requested records relate had ended at the time of your request. Your request for expedited processing therefore has been denied.

Fee Waiver Request

You have also asked us to waive the fees for processing your request. The fees for processing your request will not exceed our $50 minimum for charging fees. Accordingly, your fee waiver request is moot, and we will be closing it out in FOIAOnline as Not Billable.

Pursuant to regulation, 43 CFR 2.47 the following person is responsible for these decisions:

Charis Wilson
NPS FOIA Officer

Additionally, the following attorney was consulted during the preparation of this response:

Jason Waanders, Attorney-Advisor, Office of the Solicitor
U.S. Department of the Interior, Washington, D.C.

You have the right to appeal this denial of your request for expedited processing.

Determination

Upon further review, your request is granted in part and denied in part. We are providing one file, totaling 103 pages of responsive material. Portions of approximately 41 pages, however, are being withheld under Exemption 6 of the FOIA.

Exemption 6—43 C.F.R. §§ 2.23, .24

Exemption 6 allows an agency to withhold “personnel and medical files and similar files the disclosure of which would constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of personal privacy.” 5 U.S.C. § 552\(b\)\(6\). The phrase “similar files” covers any agency records containing information about a particular individual that can be identified as applying to that individual. To determine whether releasing records containing information about a particular individual would constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of personal privacy, we are required to balance the privacy interest that would be affected by disclosure against any public interest in the information.

Under the FOIA, the only relevant public interest to consider under the exemption is the extent to which the information sought would shed light on an agency’s performance of its statutory duties or otherwise let citizens ‘know what their government is up to. The burden is on the requester to establish that disclosure would serve the public interest. When the privacy interest at stake and the public interest in disclosure have been determined, the two competing interests must be weighed against one another to determine which is the greater result of disclosure: the harm to personal privacy or the benefit to the public. The purposes for which the request for information is made do not impact this balancing test, as a release of information requested under the FOIA constitutes a release to the general public.

The information that has been withheld under Exemption 6 consists of personal information including the names and pictures of Explore.org employees and we have determined that the individual or individuals to whom this information pertains have a substantial privacy interest in withholding it. Additionally, you have not provided information that explains a relevant public interest under the FOIA in the disclosure of this personal information and we have determined that the disclosure of this information would shed little or no light on the performance of the agency's statutory duties. Because the harm to personal privacy is greater than whatever public interest may be served by disclosure, release of the information would constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of the privacy of these individuals and we are withholding it under Exemption 6.

Appeal Rights

You may appeal this response to the Department's FOIA/Privacy Act Appeals Officer. If you choose to appeal, the FOIA/Privacy Act Appeals Officer must receive your FOIA appeal no later than 90 workdays from the date of this communication denying your request for a fee waiver. Appeals arriving or delivered after 5 p.m. Eastern Time, Monday through Friday, will be deemed received on the next workday. Additionally, appeals submitted via the FOIAOnline form will NOT be accepted for processing and will be deleted without further review or communication.

Your appeal must be made in writing. You may submit your appeal and accompanying materials to the FOIA/Privacy Act Appeals Officer by mail, courier service, fax, or email. All communications concerning your appeal should be clearly marked with the words: "FREEDOM OF INFORMATION APPEAL." You must include an explanation of why you believe this response is in error. You must also include with your appeal copies of all correspondence between you and the National Park Service concerning your FOIA request, including your original FOIA request and this response. Failure to include with your appeal all correspondence between you and the National Park Service will result in the Department's rejection of your appeal, unless the FOIA/Privacy Act Appeals Officer determines (in the FOIA/Privacy Act Appeals Officer's sole discretion) that good cause exists to accept the defective appeal.

Please include your name and daytime telephone number (or the name and telephone number of an appropriate contact), email address and fax number (if available) in case the FOIA/Privacy Act Appeals Officer needs additional information or clarification of your appeal.

Subject: Fat Bear Week voting issue

Deadline: ASAP

Spokesperson & Position Held: Amber Kraft, Katmai National Park & Preserve Interpretation and Education Program Manager, and other Katmai park rangers

Additional information/Driver for request: On Sunday, October 9, 747 was winning was leading in votes for the whole day and by quite a substantial amount. When there were just a few hours of voting left, park staff noticed that 435 Holly received over 9,000 votes in a very short period. There have not been any previous matches where a bear has gained on its competitor so fast in such a short period of time.

When our partners at explore.org looked into it they found many fake email addresses coming from several IP address. They were then able to filter out the fraudulent votes from those IP addresses bringing the vote totals to 37,940 for 747 and 30,430 for 435 Holly.

Our partners at explore.org also took the time to go back and look at the other matchups and found they were all sound. Going forward, the explore.org team has added captcha in order to create another barrier to stop fraudulent voting.

On Monday, the park received inquiries from Bloomberg News and Rolling Stone Magazine, and used the below statement in response:

747 was winning was leading in votes for the whole day and by quite a substantial amount. The important thing to remember, however, is that despite which bear wins the most votes in the Fat Bear Week competition, they are all winners. Bears get fat to survive and the health of Katmai's ecosystem, as demonstrated by the sustained run of salmon, clean water and thriving flora and fauna, enables their survival. Bears don't actually get anything from competing in or winning Fat Bear Week. Instead, it a way to raise awareness about brown bears: survival, competition, hunger, reproduction, conflict, skill, adaptation, learning, consequences, and the importance of protecting a healthy ecosystem for wildlife and for humans.

We hope that the awareness that Fat Bear Week brings will grow into caring, and action in whatever way makes the most sense for each individual. It could look like talking about important issues with friends and family, cleaning up a watershed or volunteering with a conservation organization, or any number of other actions. Our friends group, the Katmai

Conservancy, is the official nonprofit fundraising partner of Katmai. They are the third partner with us in Fat Bear Week and have a fundraising campaign they do in conjunction to the event.

Note that the final paragraph in the statement was included in the approved comms materials for Fat Bear Week 2022.

There are some news groups picking up on this: CNN, Jezebel, Forbes, USA Today, Bloomberg News, and Rolling Stone Magazine.

An updated statement for review is below. Park staff would like to use the statement below to respond to additional inquiries that come in, as well as for interviews today (10/11) with the Washington Post and other outlets (the park will announce the winner today and expects to receive more interview requests).

Proposed response:

When there were just a few hours of voting left on Sunday, October 9, we noticed that Bear 435 (Holly) received over 9,000 votes in a very short period of time to overtake Bear 747. There have not been any previous matches where a bear has gained on its competitor so fast in such a short period of time.

The explore.org team also took the time to go back and look at the other matchups and found they were all sound. Going forward, the explore.org team has added captcha in order to create another barrier to stop fraudulent voting. The team at explore.org can answer further details about the voting system that they manage for Fat Bear Week.

The important thing to remember is that despite which bear wins the most votes in the Fat Bear Week competition, they are all winners. Bears get fat to survive and the health of Katmai's ecosystem, as demonstrated by the sustained run of salmon, clean water and thriving flora and fauna, enables their survival. Voting on www.fatbearweek.org continues through Fat Bear Tuesday (10/11) when the winner is crowned. Social media each day will share the day's matchups, remind people to vote, and reveal the winner for the day. On Tuesday (10/11) the Fat Bear Tuesday live chat will take place at 3:00pm. On Wed (10/12) we will revel in the glory of the 2022 Fat Bear Week champion. The complete schedule to finish out FBW 2022 is below.

Fat Bear Week Schedule:

Social Media - To go out on Facebook, Twitter, and Instagram

October 10 –

AM: Match up

Noon: Remember to Vote

PM: Winner

October 11 –

AM: Final Match Up

Noon: Remember to Vote

PM: Winner, winner salmon dinner!

October 12 – Congrats to all bears

October 13 –Thanks to the sponsors (AKA salmon)

October 14 – Fat Bear Week over but something that still promotes involvement

Live Event Schedule (hosted on explore.org):

- October 11 – Fat Bear Tuesday Chat (concludes FBW)

Of Note:

- FBW got more than 9,000 FBW spam votes on Sunday, Oct 9 for Holly that would have changed the results of the match up.
- Fat Bear Week Partners, the Katmai Conservancy and explore.org will host a Fat Bear Week Celebration and Fundraiser on the explore.org live chat channel on Saturday, October 15 – 4 p.m. Eastern / 1 p.m. Pacific.

Hi, Amber! Thanks for reaching out. Written answers would be great!

This is in regards to the apparent effort to game the voting for Fat Bear Week:

<https://twitter.com/KatmaiNPS/status/1579289664795840515>

My questions are:

1. How were the spam votes identified, and what can you tell us about the person(s) or account(s) that attempted to pull this off?
2. It seems, based on tweets in this thread, that someone was attempting to help bear 435 (Holly) win over bear 747. Is that correct?
3. If so, why might someone try this hard to give Holly a fraudulent win?
4. Has Fat Bear Week dealt with any voter fraud in the past? What protections are in place to ensure fair and democratic elections?

Thanks very much for your time, and all best—

Subject: FBW Update 10/10/2022

Hello All!

Here is your Fat Bear Week update for today. If you would like to see a complete list that I am compiling of FBW stories you can find that at 2022 media contacts.xlsx on the 3rd tab I'm a few days behind on this...

Of note: On Sunday 10/9 - 747 was winning was leading in votes for the whole day and by quite a substantial amount. When there were just a few hours of voting left we noticed that 435 Holly received over 9,000 votes in a very short period of time. There have not been any previous matches where a bear has gained on its competitor so fast in such a short period of time.

When our partners at explore.org looked into it they found many fake email addresses coming from several IP address. They were then able to filter out the fraudulent votes from those IP addresses bringing the vote totals to 37,940 for 747 and 30,430 for 435 Holly.

Our partners at explore.org also took the time to go back and look at the other matchups and found they were all sound. For the voting today we have added captcha in order to create another barrier to stop fraudulent voting.

There are some news groups picking up on this: CNN, Jezebel, and have also received questions from Rolling Stone Magazine and Bloomberg News. Trying to keep it focused on the interpretive message by saying the following after answering about what happened as I did above:

The important thing to remember, however, is that despite which bear wins the most votes in the Fat Bear Week competition, they are all winners. Bears get fat to survive and the health of Katmai's ecosystem, as demonstrated by the sustained run of salmon, clean water and thriving flora and fauna, enables their survival. Bears don't actually get anything from competing in or winning Fat Bear Week. Instead, it a way to raise awareness about brown bears: survival, competition, hunger, reproduction, conflict, skill, adaptation, learning, consequences, and the importance of protecting a healthy ecosystem for wildlife and for humans.

We hope that the awareness that Fat Bear Week brings will grow into caring, and action in whatever way makes the most sense for each individual. It could look like talking about important issues with friends and family, cleaning up a watershed or volunteering with a conservation organization, or any number of other actions. Our friends group, the Katmai Conservancy, is the official nonprofit fundraising partner of Katmai. They are the third partner with us in Fat Bear Week and have a fundraising campaign they do in conjunction to the event.

Hi,

I'm happy to answer your questions.

I first became suspicious about the spam voting when 435 Holly came back from being down 6,000 votes in a matter of a couple hours. While not unheard of, it is very uncommon for a bear to come back late in the day like that. We ended up finding just over 9,000 spam votes. It appears as if the spamming stopped when 435 took a decent lead. There were some spam votes for 747 as well, maybe to throw us off? We don't want to share too much about the process we used to sort out the spam votes, as we don't want to teach the spammers how to spam better. But we did add a captcha to the poll which is working to prevent future spamming.

The important thing to remember is that despite which bear wins the most votes in the Fat Bear Week competition, they are all winners. Bears get fat to survive and the health of Katmai's ecosystem, as demonstrated by the sustained run of salmon, clean water and thriving flora and fauna, enables their survival. Bears don't actually get anything from competing in or winning Fat Bear Week. Instead, it's a way to raise awareness about brown bears: survival, competition, hunger, reproduction, conflict, skill, adaptation, learning, consequences, and the importance of protecting a healthy ecosystem for wildlife and for humans.

We hope that the awareness that Fat Bear Week brings will grow into caring, and action in whatever way makes the most sense for each individual.

Hi Amber,

I'm a journalist at Slate magazine, New York. I've been following fat bear cams and they are so cool!

I came across the voter fraud that happened during fat bear week recently, and would love to talk to you about it. We are planning to look into what had actually happened.

Would you be available for a 15-minute Zoom interview sometime today before 4 PM EST? It'd be great if you could share your thoughts with me on this.

Looking forward to hearing from you.

Thanks,
Niranjana

Hi Julia,

I'll be happy to answer any questions you have. Here is our statement about the ballot issue. Let me know if you have any other questions.

We first became suspicious about the spam voting when 435 Holly came back from being down 6,000 votes in a matter of a couple hours. While not unheard of, it is very uncommon for a bear to come back late in the day like that. We ended up finding just over 9,000 spam votes. It appears as if the spamming stopped when 435 took a decent lead. There were some spam votes for 747 as well, maybe to throw us off? We added a captcha to the poll which worked to prevent future spamming.

The important thing to remember is that despite which bear wins the most votes in the Fat Bear Week competition, they are all winners. Bears get fat to survive and the health of Katmai's ecosystem, as demonstrated by the sustained run of salmon, clean water and thriving flora and fauna, enables their survival. Bears don't actually get anything from competing in or winning Fat Bear Week. Instead, it's a way to raise awareness about brown bears: survival, competition, hunger, reproduction, conflict, skill, adaptation, learning, consequences, and the importance of protecting a healthy ecosystem for wildlife and for humans.

We hope that the awareness that Fat Bear Week brings will grow into caring, and action in whatever way makes the most sense for each individual.

Good Morning Julia,

Our partners at explore.org have looked into the issue and can answer questions and provide further details about the voting system that they manage for Fat Bear Week. I have cced them to this email for you.

Fat Bear Week raises awareness by bringing the relationship between the bears and the salmon to the forefront. Bears depend on a healthy salmon run to secure the needed calories and fat required to survive winter. Preservation of a healthy ecosystem for Brooks River is essential for all the animals of Katmai.

How do you see the excitement & interest people have in FBW translate into greater stewardship, environmentalism, and/or care for the park & the effects of climate change it is subject to?

Awareness is a great first step. We hope that the awareness that Fat Bear Week brings will grow into caring, and action in whatever way makes the most sense for each individual. It could look like talking about important issues with friends and family, cleaning up a watershed or volunteering with a conservation organization, or any number of other actions. Kraft, Amber D Yesterday 12:30 PM

How do the bears get their names?

In Katmai, we employ a Bear Monitor Ranger who observes the bears and keeps records of their physical characteristics, behaviors, and personal histories. Once an adult or subadult bear is observed utilizing the Brooks River at least 3 times during a season, that individual would be considered a "regular user of the Brook's River" and will be assigned a 3-digit number. While some bears do have nicknames like Otis, Grazer, or Divot, the park's policy is to no longer name bears, but these names have been grandfathered in.

Did someone hack because holly is winning

3:38

And that wasn't possible earlier

3:38

@here

(b) (6)

(b) (6) 🇳🇴 3:42 PM

In woobox, I downloaded the votes csv and it does look like there's someone who spammed a lot of garbage emails from the same IP address.

3:42

Well, at least two IP addresses

crusch 3:45 PM

i'm seeing that now too.

Lian 3:45 PM

do we need to change it?

crusch 3:45 PM

the thing is we cant delete those votes

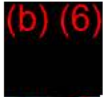

3:45

unless @ (b) (6) you can see something i dont

Lian 3:45 PM

so are we calling it for who because we need to rewrite

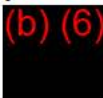

(b) (6) 3:46 PM

Wow this is absurd

Lian 3:46 PM

yes it is

(b) (6) 🇳🇴 3:47 PM

Yeah, there's nothing to specifically delete votes it seems. The only way to filter it would be to take the results into excel. and remove all suspicious ones and manually get the vote totals, but those wouldn't be reflected in the polls

crusch 3:47 PM

@Lian what do you think about this ^

(b) (6) 3:48 PM

Approx. how many votes would that be?

Amber Kraft 3:48 PM

People watch the vote numbers pretty closely

3:48

Can we just block that IP address for the future

(b) (6) 3:48 PM

and I just told the bear cam chat there wasn't anything suspicious

Amber Kraft 3:48 PM

I think people will notice if the votes just go down randomly

Lian 3:49 PM

Maybe we shouldn't call a vote tonight

3:50

I mean, we can't really honor the cheating write.... so should we right a post about ballot stuffing

3:50

right*

Amber Kraft 3:50 PM

I wouldn't event get into that

Lian 3:50 PM

So we just won't post tonight?

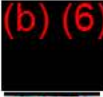

(b) (6) 3:50 PM

The polls don't close for an hour. We got time

crusch 3:51 PM

my suggestion is to just tell people that we will post the vote totals tonight after analyzing the data for suspicious activity

(b) (6) 3:51 PM

Idk, it might be worthwhile to make a post about it

3:51

Good idea

crusch 3:51 PM

its a real quick task in exel filter out the repeat IPs

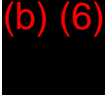

(b) (6) 3:51 PM

Don't say a thing until we figure it out

crusch 3:51 PM

and no, woobox has no way to block any one IP

3:51 PM

yeah, it doesn't seem that way

3:52

I don't know why woobox lets you limit by email but doesn't require to user to verify said email

3:53

there's a bunch of emails that look like @gmail.com

crusch 3:53 PM

it used to let you block whole countries form your polls by default but that feature went away and now we'd have to ask them what country they are from. its so dumb

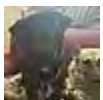

3:53 PM

lame. there are IP lookup tools online but that's a chore to do for a bunch of them

Amber Kraft 3:54 PM

like the bears stuff themselves with fish our ballet box got stuffed...

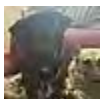

crusch 3:54 PM

this is the guy

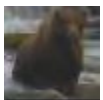

Amber Kraft 3:54 PM

How many votes from there?

crusch 3:54 PM

checking

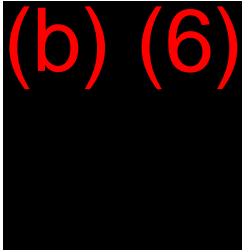

(b) (6) 3:54 PM

Can you block that IP from visiting explore.org?

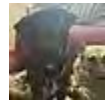

(b) (6) 🇳🇴 3:55 PM

TBH, this whole range seems suspicious

(edited)

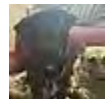

crusch 3:55 PM

and this one (b) (6)

Amber Kraft 3:55 PM

If we say that it was spammed, will that be what reporters are asking about instead of staying on the interpretive message?

crusch 3:56 PM

maybe, this was always a possibility. there isn't a single voting widget out there thats not vulnerable to spammers.

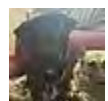

Lian 3:56 PM

But we have to acknowledge it and not just pretend like we don't know

Amber Kraft 3:57 PM

true

crusch 3:57 PM

its an easy fix tbh

(b) (6) 3:57 PM

Yes, we'll have to say something but we should give Dan and Candice a chance to do their magic

crusch 3:57 PM

we just have to post the real total at the end of the night

✓ 1

Lian 4:00 PM

About what time do you think that would be

crusch 4:01 PM

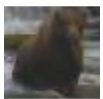

by 6:30 at the latest. Its really not that hard since its trash emails from a handful of IPs addresses

crusch 4:06 PM

my suggestion on a statement, along the lines of Yes, it appears someone has decided to spam the Fat Bear Week poll. Almost every online voting system is vulnerable to attacks like this, but because we ask people of unique email addresses, it is very easy for us to tell which are the fraudulent votes. We will be discarding the spam votes and posting the real total after the voting ends.

(b) (6) 4:07 PM

Guess I'll do that in the main chat since I ALREADY said there wasn't anything to worry about.

crusch 4:07 PM

we ALSO used to be able to restrict these things to once per IP address but that feature is gone too. one of the many things i don't like about the new woobox "updates"

4:08

@(b) (6) if it helps it was hard to see at first because we had SO MANY real votes that the spam ones got lost until i filtered by email name

✓ 1

(b) (6) 4:08 PM

I'll post in a few minutes.

4:11

Or I can wait till you think you've got a handle on the vote totals. @crusch

Lian 4:11 PM

we aren't going to post anything right now

4:11

I think at least on Katmai's end. We will wait until we have numbers to deliver to people

crusch 4:11 PM

more details for the inevitable questions. The spammer is generating unique gmail email addresses with like 28 random characters. As it went on it looked like he started to switch up the IP addresses. but the email addresses are a dead give away

4:14

@Amber Kraft so far looks like about 9,000 votes. But will likely be more by the end of the voting period

Amber Kraft 4:15 PM

wow... that's ridiculous

crusch 4:15 PM

gonna check yesterday's votes now too....cuz you know the otis fans

(b) (6) 4:17 PM

Just seeing this now, was in the comments saying that we are looking into everything just in case and that if there is something resolve we'll resolve

4:17

But I'm on the FBW page

4:19

Let me know when you're saying something @ (b) (6) and I'll follow by reiterating in various places

✓1

crusch 4:21 PM

@here I've learned two things. 901's win yesterday was legit. And there are a lot of Ambers who voted in fat bear week.

Lian 4:23 PM

(b) (6) 4:27 PM

@crusch I got my message ready but I'm sitting on it for now. I'd like to include the final vote totals once we have them.

crusch 4:27 PM

can do

(b) (6)

(b) (6) 4:28 PM

In the meantime can continue to reiterate that we are looking into it with due diligence just in case

Lian 4:29 PM

@Amber Kraft I think we are going to post this once we have the totals-FAT BEAR WEEK SCANDAL! Like bears stuff their face with fish, our ballot box too has been stuffed. It appears someone has decided to spam the Fat Bear Week poll. Almost every online voting system is vulnerable to attack, but it is easy for us to tell which are the fraudulent votes. We have discarded the spam votes and today's official totals are:xxxAnd then follow with our real winner post corrected- It appears someone has decided to spam the Fat Bear Week poll. Fortunately, it is easy for us to tell which are the fraudulent votes. We have discarded the spam votes and today's official totals are: and then go with the real post we had prepped great!

Lian 4:31 PM

(b) (6)

4:32 PM

@Lian @Amber Kraft Here's what I'll post in the main bearcam chat:

747 had been leading 435 Holly all day in today's FBW semifinal match, but that flipped in a short period of time. Initially, after conferring with explore.org's website techs, there didn't seem to be any hacking or suspicious activity that would have affected the vote. I posted that info in the chat earlier. This was incorrect.

After a more careful analysis, it appears someone spammed the Fat Bear Week poll. Because the voting platform requires unique email addresses, it is very easy for us to tell which are the fraudulent votes and/or whether a suspicious number of votes came from a single IP address. We discarded the spam votes. The final vote was 435 Holly: [TOTAL] and 747: [TOTAL].

I don't like making mistakes, but I do. I will admit when I'm wrong. I was earlier today, so I apologize for that.

Explore.org's website techs will be watching the votes more closely as FBW continues. That includes filtering for multiple votes that came from a single IP address.

The bears win nothing but our recognition in Fat Bear Week, and I argue that it doesn't really matter which bear is voted the winner. The real point of Fat Bear Week is to raise awareness and understand of Katmai National Park's bears and the incredible salmon that support them. We can all help Katmai's bears by sharing our love for them with others and encouraging more people to vote in Fat Bear Week no matter which bear wins.

[POSTSCRIPT: In case you are wondering, the website techs checked the voting activity in the 901 and 480 match and there was no suspicious activity in the votes.]

Lian 5:43 PM
 Okay I'll post now too

(b) (6) 5:43 PM
 Someone had money on this I guess. We should probably just move forward if you're comfortable calling it Candice

crusch 5:43 PM

This person was working from a list of real email addresses at first. Its a good think I looked at the other voting data before doing this or I might not have noticed. I get several hundred people might be voting from the same address at a work or school but i DO NOT believe that you can convince 2,000 people to vote the same way on anything

@(b) (6) @ (b) (6) what are the odds this spammer is in chat and started with his own home IP address? Can we search by commenter IP address in discus? if so it would be easy to compare the fraud IPs

Oooo detective work

(b) (6) 6:11 PM

The rest of the comments in that account seem OK. Not many but normal. Probably just a Holly fan.

Felicia Jimenez 6:38 PM

Was it only Holly that got fraudulent votes? None suspicious for 747?

6:39

They keep tagging this account on Twitter and he's a sports podcast host who does commentary with Barstool sports and they like low-key are admitting to voter fraud in the comments lol. Maybe he told a joke on a podcast episode where they talked about FBW and someone made a bot???

From what I understand, they were for Holly. Once Holly got a sizeable lead, then the fraud votes stopped.

crusch 6:43 PM

@Felicia Jimenez there were also some fraud votes for 747. my guess as an attempt to throw us off

I think that's a good idea.

7:48

It'll also show the audience that we are looking for ways to improve the integrity of FBW, whatever that might be.

Lian 7:50 AM
Also sounds great. I'm glad we only have one match up now though because if we had two like at the start, would they have to do it twice?

crusch 7:51 AM

yep

7:55

its the simple "are you a robot" check box one. Not the one where you have to enter the phrase. So its not too bad

👍 1

crusch 8:04 AM

oh interesting in firefox it made me do the "select images" test interesting

(b) (6) 8:05 AM

8:46

someone in our feedback inbox has stumbled upon the exact method of spamming we encountered 😄.

(b) (6) 8:46 AM

I wish it was always a check box. That seems far more accessible than the photos but maybe its more vulnerable to bots?

crusch 8:47 AM

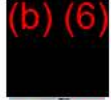

they're like "well someone could just enter their whole companies email list" which is exactly what our spammer started with it looks like

8:47

I think it shows the photos to people voting more than once on one IP. I didnt get it the first time, but I got it every time I tried to vote after 8:48

(i did two for grazer and two for 901 in my test votes so as not to sway anything)

(b) (6)

(b) (6)  9:14 AM

Generally, with that type of captcha, if you've completed it before, your approval gets stored in cookies/local storage so from there on you typically just get the checkbox

crusch 11:04 AM

@here if you would like a comparison between yesterday and today. The captcha seems to be working. Everything with 20 or more votes is a school or a workplace and they are all voting for different people

(b) (6) 11:17 AM

Certainly nothing that could've swayed that match one way or the other.

(b) (6) 11:20 AM

I've quashed every query about it and been clear with them anywhere they ask that it's been thoroughly reviewed

11:20

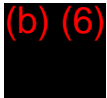

most of them seem satisfied with the response

crusch 11:20 AM
sweet

11:23

what I find truly impressive looking at all the data is the the VAST majority of votes are coming from unique IPs. Like today of the 35,000 votes I'm looking at today 28,000 are unique individuals

haha (edited)

(b) (6) 2:45 PM
Oh man.....

crusch 2:45 PM

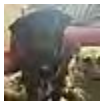

hahahahaha delightful. As long as we find a way to bring it back to the bears im gonna count it as a win

(b) (6) 2:47 PM

I've also got two emails today from different TV production companies asking about making a TV show about FBW and the bears. I'm trying to figure out a way to let them down nicely. Last thing we need is a TV show sensationalizing the bears.

😬 1

crusch 2:47 PM

If you want you can send them my way

usually asking them for any details deters them. Then when we get them i get to be like "It doesn't look like you understand the mission of bear cam"

(b) (6) 2:49 PM

One asked, "Would you be interested in...potentially developing a television series around your work in Brooks Falls?"No. No.

crusch 2:49 PM

so vague.

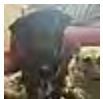

(b) (6) 2:50 PM

That person's company produced North Woods Law, the reality show about game wardens.

crusch 2:50 PM

Yikes

crusch 2:55 PM

I will say though, Mike if you ever want to develop a TV show about the bears I'm pretty sure Liz can find us a producer who actually fits the mission in like 2 seconds

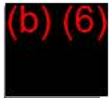

(b) (6) 2:57 PM

The only person I'd trust to develop a documentary or show about it would be Naomi. I'd be afraid that anyone else would sensationalize the bears and we'd lose control of the narrative. Plus I don't want to be on TV any more than I must to help the bears.

crusch 2:58 PM

She'd be great. and she has a lot of connections

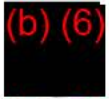

(b) (6) 2:59 PM

No anthropomorphized bears with celebrity voices? haha

(b) (6) 2:59 PM

Didn't someone ask us to do that last year?

(b) (6) 2:59 PM

turn it into the equivalent of a teen drama running for student council president

crusch 3:00 PM

YES thats exactly what that guy was pitching last year. That and moving the final vote to a one day only TV event ugh

3:00

AND He wanted us to pay for it

Amber Kraft 3:07 PM

Good Morning America asked me on Saturday if they could do the exclusive reveal of the winner on their show on Wed morning.. I told them no

(b) (6) 3:11 PM

Wow. Glad they are that vested but it would be a disaster for us overall.

crusch 3:28 PM

any station asking for an exclusive reveal obviously is not following how FBW works also like upsettingly last minute. If we were gonna doing any exclusive deal with any news agency wouldn't we have done it from the the start so we could promote it???

3:31

(b) (6)

(b) (6) 3:38 PM

They probably assume they're all the promotion we need

crusch 3:43 PM

of course how silly of us to assume otherwise.

The WASO NPS office is directing us to refer all questions about the "voting sandal" to explore.org. I will have more details shortly about what we are going to be asked to say

crusch 10:24 AM

Got it

10:25

This is what I've been saying

We first became suspicious about the spam voting when 435 Holly came back from being down 6,000 votes in a matter of a couple hours. While not unheard of, it is very uncommon for a bear to come back late in the day like that. We ended up finding just over 9,000 spam votes. It appears as if the spamming stopped when 435 took a decent lead. There were some spam votes for 747 as well, maybe to throw us off? We dont want to share too much about the process we used to sort out the spam votes, as we don't want to teach the spammers how to spam better. But we did add a captcha to the poll which seems to be working. If we had not detected the votes it would have changed the winner. Let me know if you have any other questions.

👍 1

(b) (6) 10:25 AM

I was going to say something about WASO but I decided to bite my tongue instead.

Amber Kraft 10:26 AM

I was told I should have called them on Sunday before we put anything out... oh well. too late now.

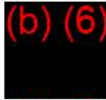

crusch 10:27 AM

Ugh annoying, but there is no way they would have gotten back to you in any sort of timely manner

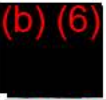

(b) (6) 10:28 AM

They need to stay out of the way and let the park staff do their job. Give me the director's phone #.

(b) (6) 10:30 AM

That's tough, you were all in a very tight spot. you had to delay announcing results as it was and who knows how long it would have taken for them to weigh in

(b) (6) 10:31 AM

I think everyone did a great job with wordsmithing and explaining it.

(b) (6) 10:32 AM

Yes, the park handled it very well and waiting for some muckety-muck in Washington to craft a response would've taken days and made things worse.

H1

crusch 10:32 AM

not to mention they don't know ANYTHING about what we actually did. It would have been slow and wrong

(b) (6) 10:35 AM

I can make it a bigger scandal if you want. I can tell the media that the NPS leadership doesn't want the park to talk about it. What is the NPS hiding from the American people!?!?

10:35

I bet Q knows.

crusch 10:35 AM

crusch 10:38 AM

I'm a little annoyed so many news agencies are trying to make this a thing. It was the most clumsy spam ever. We figured it out and got it fixed in like 30 minutes and one excel pivot table. Its disappointing someone would do it but its not 15 articles of news worthy.

Last reply 1 day agoView thread

crusch 10:41 AM

I've also added this to the statement where applicable

I know that some people were disappointed since they wanted 435 Holly to win so badly. But it's important to remember that for 435, and all the bears, being fat for winter is the real win. And Holly is certainly ready for winter.

(b) (6)

(b) (6) 10:41 AM

But voter fraud is sexy to media

10:41

lol

10:42

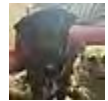

So absurd

Amber Kraft 10:42 AM

@crusch when you are responding in addition to the blurb you have above can you also be sure to include something along the lines of: The important thing to remember is that despite which bear wins the most votes in the Fat Bear Week competition, they are all winners. Bears get fat to survive and the health of Katmai's ecosystem, as demonstrated by the sustained run of salmon, clean water and thriving flora and fauna, enables their survival. Bears don't actually get anything from competing in or winning Fat Bear Week. Instead, it a way to raise awareness about brown bears: survival, competition, hunger, reproduction, conflict, skill, adaptation, learning, consequences, and the importance of protecting a healthy ecosystem for wildlife and for humans.

We hope that the awareness that Fat Bear Week brings will grow into caring, and action in whatever way makes the most sense for each individual.

Hi! I'm not sure if this is the best contact method, but if not, I hope you'll forward it to the proper channel. I wanted to take a moment to praise who's doing the copywriting for Fat Bear Week. As a copy- and content writer myself, I know that this sort of prose doesn't get as many accolades as other content types tend to do. It's clear that the writer had a great deal of fun with this project, and it shows—it's been absolutely delightful to read the updates each day. So whoever you are, FBW writer, kudos! and thank you for making this super fun event even more enjoyable. P.S. Also please tell your boss that I said you should get a raise.

@Amber Kraft Gonna try to get you the Fat bear Week and seasonal Bear Cam analytics reports before you go. Would Friday be okay?

Amber Kraft 8:41 AM

sure. Thanks so much

8:41

Just as an FYI- Monday is my last day at Katmai

Gonna miss this whole team at Katmai. You guys were so great. If you wind up at a park that needs a live cam you know who to call

Chris Kliesrath 8:56 AM

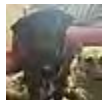

It's been a pleasure working with you too!

Lian 8:57 AM

Awww thanks!

New

On the technical side of it, there's no real harm in sharing. Voting is over, captcha probably mitigated any further attempts and next year we'll hopefully be even more prepared for any such thing

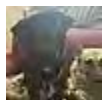

crusch 11:53 AM

my thought as well

Hopefully we'll get woobox to shore up any deficiencies on their part. Lest I have to build us an in house voting system, lol

crusch 11:55 AM

The long list of improvements I want to send them. starting with, if you say 2mb why can't i upload anything over 1mb.
