

SUPER SLEEPER

WHAT A LIFE!
I GET TO SPEND ALL SUMMER EATING AND
THEN HIBERNATE ALL WINTER. AHFFF.

I'M WITH HER.
I LIKE TO SLEEP ALL WINTER, TOO.
I MUST GET FAT,
(MUNCH MUNCH MUNCH).

DID YOU KNOW?

Marmots are super sleepers. At the end of August, they go into a special type of sleep called hibernation. From September through May, they snooze underground. Would you like to sleep through the whole school year? To survive that long without eating, they need lots of fat, so they spend the summer gorging themselves on plants.
