

JFK's Traits through the Ages

---

*Jack's family was as large as an elephant.
His parents wanted him to be a role model, sometimes he could be a bit of a prankster.
Sometime what someone wants you to be, is not always what you will become.*

*JFK was as energetic as a tiger hunting his prey.
When Jack played against Joe Jr. he was determined to win and didn't give up no matter what.
JFK taught us to be brave even when you're not the strongest or the best!*

*Jack was competitive as two wolves racing in the woods.
Jack was always determined to win every competition.
Jack taught us to never give up and always keep trying.*

*When he was reading, JFK was as smart as a scientist doing an experiment.
JFK was always reading and writing. When he was sick, it made him feel better.
When you read and write, you get smarter. Reading and writing are good things to keep you entertained when you are sick.*

*JFK was determined like a cat chasing a mouse.
JFK was brave to make a promise that we would get a man to the moon and back in the decade, even though it might not come true.
Jack taught us that if you try your hardest, you will succeed.*

*JFK was as interested in History like a caveman discovering modern technology.
JFK was excited about history because he loved words and he wrote books about history.
He taught us that the past can teach us about the future.*

Ms. Bordieri's Class

---

Yali Ben Dor
Garfield Branche
Avishag Cohen
Dafna Duchin
Ivan Epworth
Luke Ferrero-Poschetto
Merrick Jiang
Jordyn Karp
Oriana Maayani
Isabel Olive
Liam Opher-Michaels
Jieling Pua
Ellie Schultheis
Illiyna Velez Fenner
Eliana Williams
James Wright
Aaron Yung
Tomer Zilbershot

