Welcome to Mount Rushmore National Memorial

Take pleasure in the beauty and reflect upon the symbolism of the four presidents, the magnificent feat of engineering required to carve a mountain and the artistic accomplishment evident in the four faces.

It has been 90 years since Mount Rushmore was authorized by the United States Congress on March 3, 1925. The memorial is a unique iconic national park and one of 407 sites the National Park Service is entrusted to preserve and protect for future generations. Mount Rushmore not only represents the history of America, it also evokes a distinctive significance for each visitor.

Whether your personal meaning involves patriotism, inspiration, history or a renewed sense of civic unity, a visit to the park can inspire the personal connection between citizens and their country.

One of our goals is to facilitate visitor appreciation of the cultural and natural resources of the park. Our park team and park partners are here to provide exceptional service and assist you in learning more about Mount Rushmore. We hope you experience and enjoy the many cultures represented by our visitors.

Please have a safe and enjoyable visit whether this is your first visit or you visit often.

Let Wildlife be Wild

Although they look friendly, all animals in the park are wild. Please do not approach or feed them. Approaching them causes stress and disturbs them from resting areas, natural feeding areas and travel routes. Animals have their own sources of food and must not learn to rely on human food which can cause serious health problems or death.

Have You Found Your Park?

An idea was born nearly one hundred years ago that would forever change America. The National Park Service Organic Act of 1916 established an agency to protect lands set aside by the American public so that everyone could visit and experience the many wonders of our nation. This radical new idea changed the way our nation preserves and manages public lands by creating a two-part mission: to protect these national treasures for future generations while at the same time making the parks accessible to everyone.

While national parks had existed since 1872, when Yellowstone National Park was established, no agency existed to take care of them. As the number of parks began to grow, supporters of the national parks began to ask the United States Congress to provide better protection and management of them. This led to the creation of the National Park Service, under the Department of the Interior. The leaders of this new agency faced a huge challenge working to accomplish its dual mission. One hundred years later, thanks to their passion and dedication, we are still able to visit and enjoy these special places.

In 2016 the National Park Service will celebrate its Centennial, and we invite you to share in that celebration. Over the last 100 years the parks have evolved and the agency today manages a range of natural and cultural sites including monuments, parkways, battlefields, cemeteries, and recreation areas. This rich variety now includes more than 400 “parks”, all with their own special contribution.

National parks share the story of America: its beautiful landscape from coast to coast, its achievements, its sacrifices, and even its low points; all of which have added to our colorful history. The National Park Service invites you to celebrate with us the achievements of the past 100 years as well as to help to kick off our second century of stewardship and engagement for America’s national parks and communities across the nation.

So take a moment to get out and #findyourpark, share your experience, have an adventure... America’s story is calling you.

Second-century Vision

America has changed dramatically since the birth of the National Park Service in 1916. The roots of the National Park Service lie in the parks' majestic, often isolated natural wonders and in places that exemplify our cultural heritage, but their reach now extends to places difficult to imagine 100 years ago—into urban centers, across rural landscapes, deep within oceans, and across night skies.

In our second century, the National Park Service recommits to the exemplary stewardship and public enjoyment of these places as well as fully representing our nation's culturally diverse communities. To achieve the promise of democracy, we will create and deliver activities, programs, and services that honor, examine, and interpret America's complex heritage. By investing in the preservation, interpretation, and restoration of the parks and by extending the benefits of conservation to communities, the National Park Service will inspire a "more perfect union," offering renewed hope to each generation of Americans.

A second-century National Park Service will manage parks as cornerstones in protecting broader natural and cultural landscapes. Threats unforeseen a century ago have emerged beyond park boundaries and demand solutions that are large in scope and require collaboration with partners. While preserving America's special places, the National Park Service will manage the natural and cultural resources to increase resilience in the face of climate change and other stressors.

The national parks also deliver a message to future generations about the experiences that have made America a symbol of freedom and opportunity for the rest of the world. To visit our national parks is to witness American values on full display in extraordinary places that embody certain "unalienable rights" inspiring our planet's citizens. To actively ensure conservation of national parks, public lands, wilderness, and historic places for the enjoyment of future generations is a priceless gift to each generation.

The national parks are a story of people, rich and poor, famous, infamous and unknown, people who were and are willing to devote themselves to saving some precious portion of the land that inspired them and in doing so declaring to all mankind the full meaning of democracy.

Park Partners

MOUNT RUSHMORE SOCIETY

The Mount Rushmore Society has a long history with Mount Rushmore, beginning in 1930 with soliciting private funds and providing for citizen involvement in the carving of the memorial. Ever since, the Society has been instrumental in the memorial's growth and promotion. The Society operated the first gift shop in the 1940s, embarked on a nationwide Preservation Fund campaign in the 1980s, raising $25 million and spurring a total of $56 million in facility improvements during redevelopment at Mount Rushmore in the 1990s, including a $17 million parking facility, created the Mount Rushmore Bookstores in 1993 and formed the Mount Rushmore Institute in 2007.

Today, the Society continues to be an active partner with the National Park Service at Mount Rushmore:

- The Mount Rushmore Bookstores contribute $200,000 to the park annually.
- The Society raised $300,000 to construct a permanent Youth Exploration Area that will allow younger visitors to experience hands-on programs in an engaging atmosphere.

YOU can be a part of the mission as well. Visit one of the three bookstore outlets or go to www.mountrushmoresociety.com to find out more about becoming a society member and/or to donate to specific causes.

Youth Exploration Area expected to be completed by June, 2015.

XANTERRA PARKS & RESORTS

For more than 130 years, Xanterra Parks & Resorts has operated lodging, restaurants and other facilities at some of the most beautiful places on earth – our country's spectacular national and state parks. The Xanterra name has become synonymous with park and resort hospitality in pristine environments. Xanterra has operated the Carvers Café, Gift Shop and Memorial Team Ice Cream Shop at Mount Rushmore since 1993. Beyond offering high-quality guest services, the company is committed to providing guests with a memorable experience while helping them to have the least amount of impact on the environment possible. Through its ISO 14001 certified Environmental Management System, Xanterra is working towards becoming a truly sustainable business.

Since 2000, Xanterra at Mount Rushmore has reduced water consumption by 28%, electricity use by 30%, and transportation fuel use by 51%. Every year Xanterra also offsets over one third of its remaining greenhouse gas emissions by purchasing carbon offsets that support other emissions reduction projects. The Carver's Café is the only 3 star certified Green Restaurant in the state of South Dakota! This means that they have met the requirements of the national Green Restaurant Association in categories such as sourcing sustainable food, conserving energy and water, minimizing chemical pollution, and reducing waste through recycling."

During your visit, stop by the Gift Shop to peruse the "Made in America" section or check out the beautiful Native American made products. Last year 18% of Gift Shop sales were from local, recycled, fair trade, or other products with significant sustainable attributes. The Xanterra buyers work hard to increase this number every year.

Most of all, have a memorable and exciting visit here at Mount Rushmore.

Stepping Up to Sustainability

Sculptor Gutzon Borglum carved a monument to last generations. Just like Borglum, every visitor to Mount Rushmore has the opportunity to create a legacy through sustainable practices. The National Park Service and its partners continue to work to improve energy efficiency, reduce waste and increase recycling when possible. In 2015, the National Park Service installed updated HVAC controls and more energy efficient doors, windows and insulation in its buildings, using recycled content materials where possible. The sculpture lighting and some of the general memorial lighting was also converted to LED technology.

Thirsty? Quench your thirst while protecting the environment by visiting the hydration station installed by Xanterra in the Carvers Café. This station allows you to fill up reusable water bottles and eliminate significant plastic water bottle waste from the park.

If you enjoyed a snack, lunch or dinner in the Carvers Café, rest easy. Over half of the waste collected in the park is recycled. This is an increase of 24% since 2000. We strive to recycle or reuse as much as possible to reduce our environmental impact. Some examples of the materials reused or recycled by Xanterra include cardboard, all types of paper, plastic bags, batteries, electronics, cooling oil, scrap metal, light bulbs, foam ice-cream cone packaging, unsellable t-shirts, and even cigarette butts!

Have you seen the green and gray cans throughout the park? Green cans are for mixed recycling including plastics, glass, and metal containers. Gray cans are for all other non-recyclable trash.

By doing the simple act of disposing chewing gum in the proper containers, you can save hundreds of gallons of water used in steaming the gum off walkways, as well as $20,000 in the cost of cleaning annually.

Your efforts at sustainability, combined with the efforts of the National Park Service, Xanterra's Gift Shop and Carver's Cafe, the Mount Rushmore Bookstores and the Mount Rushmore Society parking concession show the commitment we all have towards our environment.

President Theodore Roosevelt noted that "There can be no greater issue than that of conservation in this country." With a big help from you and our partners, Mount Rushmore takes proactive steps to ensure that everything we do is sustainable and efficient, resulting in a legacy for future generations.
