COPYRIGHT AND RESTRICTIONS

The copyright law of the United States (Title 17, United States Code) governs the making of photocopies or other reproductions of copyrighted materials. The various state privacy acts govern the use of materials that document private individuals, groups, and corporations.

Under certain conditions specified in the law, libraries and archives are authorized to furnish a reproduction if the document does not infringe the privacy rights of an individual, group, or corporation. These specified conditions of authorized use include:

- non-commercial and non-profit study, scholarship, or research, or teaching
- criticism, commentary, or news reporting
- as a NPS preservation or security copy
- as a research copy for deposit in another institution

If a user later uses a copy or reproduction for purposes in excess of "fair use," the user may be personally liable for copyright, privacy, or publicity infringement. This institution's permission to obtain a photographic, xerographic, digital, or other copy of a document doesn't indicate permission to publish, exhibit, perform, reproduce, sell, distribute, or prepare derivative works from this document without first obtaining permission from the copyright holder and from any private individual, group, or corporation shown or otherwise recorded.

Permission to publish, exhibit, perform, reproduce, prepare derivative works from, sell, or otherwise distribute the item must be obtained by the user separately in writing from the holder of the original copyright (or if the creator is dead from his/her heirs) as well as from any individual(s), groups, or corporations whose name, image, recorded words, or private information (e.g., employment information) may be reproduced in the source material. The holder of the original copyright isn't necessarily the National Park Service. The National Park Service is not legally liable for copyright, privacy, or publicity infringement when materials are wrongfully used after being provided to researchers for "fair use."

This institution reserves the right to refuse to accept a copying order if fulfillment of the order is judged in violation of copyright or federal or state privacy or publicity law.

History

In 1952, Rocky Mountain National Park hired Ferrel Atkins as a seasonal Ranger Naturalist. With little experience in the natural sciences but with a Ph. D. in Mathematics from the University of Kentucky, Atkins quickly adjusted to the topics and topography of Rocky Mountain National Park. Working each summer between 1952 through 1984, Atkins spent many hours in the park's library diligently researching the rich history of the park and surrounding areas. During his tenure, Atkins lead interpretive hiking and horseback tours, slide programs, alpine and photo caravans, fishing demonstrations, and occasionally assisted with law enforcement duties. From 1986 until 2009, Atkins returned to the park as a volunteer. Atkins passed away in September 2011.

Scope

This collection contains materials written or collected by Ferrel Atkins, Seasonal Interpretive Ranger. The collection features reports written by Atkins including a Historic Sites and Building Survey on Fern Lake Lodge; assembled documentation includes bibliographies, narratives, photographs, slides, photocopies of portions of topographic maps, and floor plans related to park historic structures; oral histories and interviews materials conducted by Atkins or other park staff and/or biographical information; and correspondence, pamphlets, photographs, postcards, newspapers and clippings, and reports collected by Atkins for various research interests and projects.

Arrangement

This collection is arranged into 4 series:
Series 1, Reports
Series 2, Assembled Historic Sites Files
Series 3, Assembled Oral Histories and Interviews
Series 4, Research Files.
