

Native Americans & Stewardship 2012 Summer/Fall Lecture Series

JULY 20

Lissa Wadewitz

The Nature of Borders: Salmon, Boundaries, and bandits on the Salish Sea. Lissa is assistant professor, History Department & Environmental Studies Linfield College, McMinnville, OR.

JULY 22

Jonathan Greenberg

Inuit Communities in the Canadian Arctic: Lessons from Nunavut. Jonathan is Director, International Dispute Resolution for Heenan Blaikie LLP. Mr. Greenberg specializes in the resolution of complex disputes involving multi-stakeholder boundaries.

AUGUST 4-5

Judy Bridges & Karen Haas

Bridges, a Cowlitz weaver, and Haas, a noted storyteller will demonstrate how Indian and European techniques melded on the frontier. 9 a.m. to 5p.m.

* English Camp Parade Ground

AUGUST 26

Craig Bill

Director of the Washington State Governor's Office of Indian Affairs, serving as advisor on tribal issues in the state. Craig is a member of the Swinomish Tribe and descendent of the Colville Confederated Tribes as well as the Choctaw Nation of Oklahoma, respectfully.

SEPTEMBER 9

Dave Oreiro

Vice-President for Campus Development, Northwest Indian College, Lummi Nation. Oreiro has spent 23 years working with Native Education programs.

SEPTEMBER 23

Roylene Rides at the Door

Conservationist, Washington Natural Resource Conservation Service. Raised on a Montana ranch, her commitment to land preservation contributed to what she felt was her heritage and destiny.

All lectures at 7 p.m., at Skagit Valley College*
Friday Harbor Campus

Free Admission with a reception to follow each lecture

For more information about the Native Americans & Stewardship Series and our speakers go to:

www.madrona.org

www.nps.gov/sajh

Indian Fishing Village, Kanaka Bay,
San Juan Island, c. 1890

