Dear Sister and Children,

I take my pen in hand to let you know where I am and to let you know where I am. I am writing a long. I have been very sick and I am not getting along very well. but I hope that when these few lines to your hand they will find you all well. Susan, I must tell you about the battle that I was in. I was in the battle on Rockey Faced Mountain (Probably Rocky Face, Georgia) and then Reesacka (probably Resaca) and (Dalton) and one mpore that I don't recall the name of it. but I went in and come out all rite and wasent hurt. thenext day after the last battl took sick and was taken to the hospital and laid their one week and didn't eat anything but drink a little coffee and sometimes eat a bite of cracker or a little meat. I got so poor that I wasn't any thing but skin and bones and then was sent back to Chattanooga and then here. I come here the second day of July and have bin eaver since but I don't know how long I will be here.

Dear sister you mustn't think hard of me for not writing sooner have so many to write to that I can't write often to on e. I have wrote to all and have not recieved from but you and John Hester Harvy and Nancy. I don't know whether they don't thimk enough of me to write or what. I want you to write when eaver you can and I will do the same.

I must bring my letter to a close. but write soon . I will write you my favorite song on the other side.

Who will care for mother now,
Why am I so weak and weary.
See how faint my heated breath,
Fall around to me seames darkness
Well one comes is this death.
And how will know your answer to my fate all meekly now if you will only tell me daddy

who will care for mother now.

Chorus C

soon with angels I shall be marching with bride locks on my brow
I have for my Country fallen
who will care for mother now.

who will comfort her in sorrow who will whisper words of cheer gently with her wrinked forehead who will dry the falling tear. —

now the Chorus of even now I think I see her kneeling praying for me now.

can I leave her in her anguish
who will care for mother now.

Chorus soon with angels
